Financial Aid

Dodge City Community College has developed a variety of financial aid packages to assist students in overcoming economic problems associated with college attendance. DCCC accepts financial aid applications and makes decisions regarding those applications without regard to sex, race, creed, disability, or national origin.

Students who wish to apply for a Pell Grant or Stafford Loan must first establish their eligibility by completing their ACT Family Financial Statement and have their expected family contribution determined. It takes approximately four to six weeks to process an ACT Family Financial Statement. If a student is determined eligible to apply for a loan, it takes at least another three to four weeks for the loan application to be processed.

To qualify for any federal financial aid, a student needs to have a high school diploma or GED. Students who do not meet these requirements may arrange to take a vocational test to determine ability to benefit. Contact the DCCC Testing Center well in advance of the class starting date to arrange for testing.

Veterans who meet eligibility requirements may receive benefits for credit courses taken at the college. For more information call 316-225-1321, Ext. 208.

Any student with a financial concern is encouraged to contact the DCCC Financial Aid Director for additional information.
